

PFDJ REGIME FOR WILD ANIMALS:

A satire by Asselman: The zonal administration of the Eritrean regime seems more worried and concerned about wild animals than human beings. While Eritreans of all walks are worried about the land proclamation, use, policies and the way it is handled by the regime, the regime does not care about the human aspects but about the wild animals. The reason is one and the same. Currently and in Eritrea, wild not domestic animals are large in number than human beings. So it's obvious for PIA to displace and suffocate humans to flee the countries to leave more land for natural parks. The flow of the Eritreans to neighboring countries, like Ethiopia and Sudan has urged the zonal administration organ to confine itself about how to keep or hold back the subject (wild animals) from crossing the border. Because the aggregate findings of the zonal administration have manifested that after two or three months and unless the needed forces to curb the ill intentioned upraising of the wild animals which might have a great impact up on the few domestic animals left behind and forced to stay back while a great chunk of which had crossed to Ethiopia in the border war injected by the current Eritrean regime at post in 2000 is worked out, Eritrea will remain the Sahara of the East Africa- a great challenge to IGAD to reverse it.

Therefore, the Eritrean zonal administration which is led by the frail, impotent but the veteran, Woldemichael Abraha, is under intense pressure from the presidential office to come up with authentic plan of action to set the project of Animal Farm into motion in Eritrea. As to the study of the organ, not pigs but elephants are nominated to be more equal than the rest animals and are being given a vast Tiesa meret in Gash barka. This zone is chosen for its fertility and vastness. On top, the traditional owners of this area, the indigenous Kunama people, as we all know, are forced and suppressed to accept or bow to the repressive, hegemonic and heavy handed administrative style of the PFDJ's regime. By the way, an elephant is culturally respected animal among the Kunama and therefore, nothing wrong if picked to replace the marginalized, excluded and ousted Kunama. And the body posture too is tall and big with a small skull, the very favorable criterion the current Eritrean president Isaias Afwerqi and his cohorts have gone through so far since liberation struggle. God knows the mental caliber of the elephant, the giant tall and a slow animal to convince the rest animals not to cross the border for their safety. It's, therefore, heard that unless the project of realizing Animals Farm in Eritrea is set in to motion, Eritrea shall be a state devoid of both first (human)and second (animals)class citizens. The current, day to day influx of the Eritrean refugees is tripling in size than before. The regime's military might is on collapse. Economically paralyzed. Psychologically hypnotized and in a state of delirium. Diplomatically secluded. What else and what not! Since, we failed, forced, and missed to share the fortunes of our great effort and sacrifice in liberating Eritrea by the erroneous reckless and irresponsible style of leadership of PFDJ, let's wish the regime to lead the wild animals instead! Let our slogan be PFDJ FOR WILD ANIMALS!
